NINETEEN HUNDRED FIFTY-NINE

D E D I C A T I O N

FOR guiding the school through its first and most difficult year, for making all the preparations for the new school, and for giving his love and loyalty to the student body and faculty we gladly dedicate this VISTA of 1959 to Ruel E. Tucker, principal of the Great Neck South Senior High School.

Mr. Tucker has had much experience as a principal. Before coming to this school, he had been principal at the Great Neck High School from 1941 to 1956. Then, giving up this position, he began the plans for the new school, at which he worked arduously for two years.

The entrance of students and teachers for the school year 1958-1959 was a momentous occasion for him. Before this time, the school had been just a building without people, academic work, activities, and spirit. He had worked hard for his actual job—being principal or educational leader of the school—to come into being. We feel that he carefully and skillfully handled this important role.

Besides this aspect of his position, he is known for his inspiring and friendly associations with both students and teachers; for his ability to solve all problems, especially at 8:00 in the morning; and for his amusing stories, told at any gathering. Mr. Tucker has been devoted to the school and will be loved as our first principal for years to come.

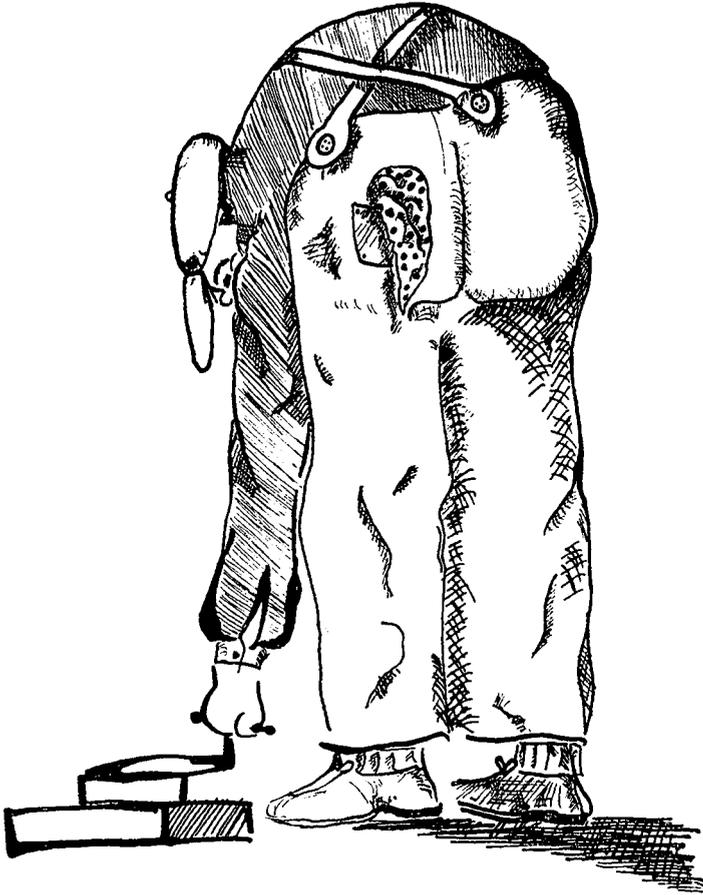

F O R E W O R D

OUR first year at this beautiful school has been one of many experiences for each person—student and teacher alike. Each one of us had to start with the first brick and begin to grow from there—to start new organizations, to make the transition of certain traditions from one school to another, and to make adjustments; all these have not been easy. But now that we look back, they weren't really as difficult as they seemed. The reason has been the wonderful cooperation between the students, teachers, and principal. We have all done our share to make a successful first year and to establish precedents which will be followed for years to come.

The first layer of bricks is the principal, who guided us through the school year. The next layer was the teachers who, although hampered by the lack of equipment, did a fine job in teaching. And the next layer—the most important to the foundation—was the students, a most important group. There were G. O. and class officers, athletic teams, both boys and girls, and students representing the school with their scholastic achievements; they all started the reputation of our school. Others who were not as active supported their fellow students with their spirit.

It was a year to remember, not only for the seniors, but for the juniors and sophomores, too, because they were all a part of the structure. An attempt was made by all for the successful completion of the solid and firm foundation of the Great Neck South Senior High School.

All the outstanding events of our school year have been described and illustrated through a very important first, VISTA of 1959, this yearbook. Like everything else, it started from the beginning and came to a successful termination by showing the school year from beginning to end—a workman's laying of the first brick to his placing of the final one for the culmination of the school year.

What nobler employment, or more valuable to the state, than that of the man who instructs the rising generation.

MR. RUEL E. TUCKER

Principal

THE word "principal" the dictionary tells us, can be an adjective meaning "first in importance" or "foremost." The aptness of these definitions is well illustrated when we consider our own principal, Mr. Tucker.

In all phases of our school life, we are conscious of the debt owed to his genial but firm guiding hand. Whether rendering a decision, making the acquaintance of students, or sitting down to consider with others a problem of the school, Mr. Tucker showed himself always to be concerned with the welfare of the school and of each person in it. In large measure, the excellence of our educational program and the enjoyable activities available to all are the results of having an active, interested, strong principal at the helm.

MR. CHARLES MAIER

Assistant Principal

AS Sophocles said, "Anarchy ruins states." For any great country or organization to run (take the South Senior High, for instance), it must have laws and discipline. That's where our able Assistant Principal, Mr. Charles Maier, comes in. For, besides numerous other duties (student schedule planning and budget work), he is an important cog that makes the school go round or, at least smoothly forward.

AVE ATQUE VALE

Mrs. Marion Reading

Mr. Ernest Swenson

Mr. Stillman Hobbs

AS the end of the school year approaches, it marks the retirement of three of our teachers—Mrs. Marion Reading, Mr. Ernest Swenson, and Mr. Stillman Hobbs. Each of them, Mrs. Reading, in physical education and health; Mr. Swenson, in modern languages; and Mr. Hobbs, in social studies, has contributed much to many generations of Great Neck students. As teachers, they shared their skills and knowledge; as counselors, they helped to point the way toward wise decisions; and, as friends, they were always willing to give time and sincere interest to each student. For their skill and wisdom and for their friendliness and help they have earned the respect and affection of all who have known them. As we regretfully say "Good-bye," we extend to these dedicated teachers our sincere wishes for good health and happy days in the years ahead.

THE difficult and time-consuming task of creating a government was undertaken by the Interim Committee, which established the General Organization of Great Neck South Senior High School. By the beginning of October, this group had written a constitution and presented it to the school, organized the election of officers, designed and printed the G. O. ticket, and presented the first G. O. assembly. Jill Carlton, Carol Cohen, Jim Cornehlson, Ed Greenberg, Jane Haffner, Nancy Hirschland, Brook Hart, Arthur Levi, Lenny Jacoff, Steve Simon, Adrienne Yip, and Norma Giffords, chairman of the committee, are the people responsible for this creditable job.

Following the school's acceptance of the new constitution, the G. O. was pleased to announce that 91% of the student body had turned out to vote for its officers. The news was later released that 87% of the students had bought G. O. membership cards, an impressive showing.

Heading a long line of history-making events for our new school was "First Night," followed by "Winter Twilight" and "Record Hop," the G. O. sponsored dances. These, and other functions of the G. O., were made possible through the cooperative efforts of students and faculty.

The G. O. could not exist without the invaluable help of students who gave up much of their time to work on G. O. committees. A ring committee, headed by Adrienne Yip, planned the sale of the school ring to all three grades, an experiment which it was hoped would prove successful.

G. O. ASSEMBLY

The Assembly Committee, with Arnie Fink as chairman, was responsible for the planning of the many fine assemblies held during the year. The American Field Service Committee, under Elizabeth Gruber, sponsored a fund-raising jazz concert in a joint effort with the North School. Dining to music became an accepted luxury as the Cafeteria Committee, headed by Carol Ochs, arranged to have music piped into the cafeteria. Another important achievement of this committee was its establishment of a smoking area in the upstairs cafeteria.

Headed by Richard Schultz, the School Relations Committee succeeded in securing an additional late bus as a part of the committee's year-round function of dealing with any problems concerning the relationship between the students and the faculty, the P. T. A., and the administration.

With John Piccirillo as chairman, the Guide Committee became a permanent committee designed to usher school functions and to show visitors through the school. Steve Simon headed the Constitution Committee, which was established for the purpose of interpreting our school constitution. The Publicity Committee, under the direction of Carol Strauss, provided an inexhaustible supply of publicity for the various G. O. events. Ronny Li served as chairman of the Club Committee, whose function it was to approve the constitution of any prospective club.

Hiroharu Koike, a native of Sasebo, Japan, and familiar to all of us as "Hiro," was Great Neck South's first American Field Service exchange student. Many of our questions concerning Hiro's observations were answered by him in an assembly held which featured a discussion of Dancing in a Winter Wonderland.

Great Neck's educational system as compared to that of Japan.

The significant achievements of the General Organization were accomplished under the able leadership and direction of President Edward (Woody) Greenberg, Vice-President Norma Giffords, Secretary Nancy Hirschland, Treasurer Harry David and faculty advisor, Mr. Albert Nagell.

The G. O. officers served as members of the P. T. A. in an attempt to inter-relate the community and the school. Similarly, the school cabinet, comprised of all class and G. O. officers, Beyond the heads of government there is a group of people without whom no government can exist. The student body of Great Neck South, with its enthusiastic support, was the primary factor in the overwhelming success of our first year.

Giving birth to a new organization and being part of its growth from an inexperienced baby to a profitable and well-coordinated adult was a gratifying experience for the entire student body.

ONE of the aims of a yearbook is the creation of a vista of memories. The title of our book, Vista, symbolizes the outlook and the goals of the 1959 yearbook and its staff.

In the fall, Vista members set out diligently to satisfy their hopes of creating a yearbook. A staff nucleus, headed by Jane Heffner, Editor-in-Chief, began to plan the lay-out and design and to organize the selling campaign. Assignments were then distributed to the department heads.

Ellen Faber and Toni Green, Copy Editors, were omnipresent in coordinating the entire copy of Vista. Club and committee activities were investigated and a comprehensive view of the extra-curricular life was compiled. The staff was divided into Activities, headed by Laurie Gelles and Alice Norman, and Girls' and Boys' Sports, directed by Pat Ellis and Ricky Estey respectively.

It is an old adage that one picture is worth a thousand words. The Vista staff realized the truth of this saying when they saw the photos that had captured the imagination and enthusiasm of the student body. Aaron Goodman was the Photography Editor of Vista. Working in close association with the illustrative portion of Vista were the Identifications, headed by Elaine Stauber, and the Captions staffs, of which Betty Enzel was chairman. Identifications matched names with the people to whom they belonged while captions composed the quips appropriate to candid snapshots.

The Senior Section, edited by Marjorie Saks and Rita Strax, worked assiduously to compile a summary of the activities of the senior class.

Helene Beryl and Linda Clements, chairmen of the Art staff, with the more artistic members of our school composed and compiled drawings, designs and the theme for Vista.

The completed work was submitted to the Production Staff, headed by Co-managers Jill Carlton and Ginny Metz, which arranged the lay-out—the final step before sending the book to the press.

A large part of the work in the production of a yearbook is not apparent in the final copy of the book. This is the work of the business staff, managed by Richard Villany and Jimmy Godwin. Advertisements were procured from village merchants to help cover the costs of production. The typing staff, headed by Helen Smyth and Linda Uhl, worked continuously to make legible copies of all the written material.

The faculty advisors, Miss Stevens and Mr. Creighton, gave the Vista staff their time and aid, which led to the achievement of the goal—the production of Vista.

On that triumphant June day that marked the arrival of our yearbooks, distribution of the bright blue volumes was managed by Sue Roach, Nancy Farrell, and their Circulation staff.

As pages were turned and appreciative comments delivered, the entire Vista staff could rest satisfied, knowing that its work was finally done.

Meeting a deadline.

THE SOUTHERNER

THE Great Neck South High School newspaper, The Southerner, was written and published by an enthusiastic staff dedicated to reporting the South High news and features in an interesting, informative style.

The newspaper, printed every three weeks for the first half of the year and biweekly thereafter, consisted of four pages. The first page, edited by Bruce Berger, was devoted to news. The second page, the feature and editorial page, was under the aegis of Jackie Hirsch. "Southern Slants," could be found on this page. Jackie Winer and Ellen Faber edited the third page, which contained book reviews, poems, essays, and other creative writing. Sports, edited by none other than Arnie Fink, occupied the fourth page, which kept all South fans informed of their teams' successes.

This year, Editor-in-Chief of the Southerner was Lenny Jacoff. To him must go much of the credit for a marvelously successful first year. The financial aspect was handled superbly by Business Manager, Lothar Genge. Thanks to him and his ambitious staff, the Southerner was able to issue its first edition on orange and blue paper and, shortly after, to produce its first six-page edition. Spelling mistakes could be blamed on the Copy Editor, Jerry Gelles. The exciting pictures were the product of Howie Dammond, Photography Editor.

But it was Mr. J. Robert O'Toole, faculty advisor, toward whom the staff felt the most gratitude. It was his strong guidance and unswerving loyalty which enabled the staff to publish a paper of the quality of The Southerner.

Proof of the popularity of the Southerner could be seen on distribution day. Throughout the building, students awaited their copies and then eagerly turned pages to see what their school newspaper had to offer them in the way of news, opinion, entertainment, or information. On Southerner mornings, homerooms were quiet.

SENIOR CHOIR

JUNIOR AND SOPHOMORE CHOIRS

WEARY travelers and Christmas shoppers were greeted in Grand Central Station by the voices of what seemed to be angels but, on further examination, turned out to be our own Senior Choir. This blue-robed group has been termed by Mr. Ormsby the "backbone of the vocal department." Besides taking part in all South High musical presentations, the Senior Choir, with its beautiful caroling, spread the holiday spirit through our corridors just before the Christmas vacation. . . .

"It's bigger than both of us," say the Choristers and the seventy-five juniors composing the Choraliers. They all, possessing a sincere desire to sing, look to Mr. Ormsby for inspired direction. Judging from their performance in the Christmas and spring concerts, the Senior Choir will be in excellent voice next year. . . .

Although small in size, the Sophomore Chorus is big in talent. The twenty-nine members of the Choristers contributed greatly to the programs of the Music Department. These hardworking sophomores devoted much time and effort to the success of the music of Great Neck South High this year. . . .

The band made its debut at the Christmas program and was a smashing success. Continuing three rehearsals a week, it prepared for its next concert. Later in the year, the band performed at the Evening of Music and Art. It also provided the music for several assembly programs, including the Honor Society Assembly. When our band's uniforms arrived, everyone was pleased with the blue and gold finery.

Every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at approximately 8:15, the strains of the orchestra could be heard coming from Room 308. Numbering about twenty students, the orchestra had the spotlight at dramatic productions, the Christmas program, and at the Evening of Art and Music. The orchestra provided excellent opportunities for students to develop their potentialities and gave them valuable experience in performing before an audience. . . .

*Maybe next year you can hammer some math into my head. I've really enjoyed it.

Fan Dance.

THE first year of the Modern Dance Club at the South High School did not begin easily. Only three girls in the school had been members of the club previously; they were Carolyn Hirsh, who was elected president, Ellen Gluck, who became student director, and Elsie Chandler. The new senior high members included Lucy Norman, Nancy Matthews, Carolyn Pollen, Adrienne Yip, and Carol Jacobs. Working with Miss Staat, the faculty sponsor, the girls held try-outs for new members from the senior and junior high schools. After this organization, the group began its activities.

MODERN DANCE

The black and the white.

Please lend a hand.

The club, named Orchesis, attended the Broadway production of "West Side Story," the unusual choreography of which suggested to them new dance routines. In the fall a modern dance assembly showed a film to acquaint the student body with the workings of this form of art. Later, members of Orchesis danced in many of the numbers of the Christmas program. In addition, some of the members attended a rehearsal of a ballet at the City Center.

The climax of the year's work was a dance program, which was presented both as an assembly and as an evening performance. The theme was color and the part it plays in our lives.

DRAMATICS

OUR newly formed dramatic club, Theatre South, ranked among the most popular of all school activities. Its members were not only those who participated in the acting field but also students with a keen interest in other phases of the theatre such as directing, producing, set designing, and costuming. The faculty staff for Theatre South included Miss Adams, Mr. Boressoff, Mr. Rice, and Mr. Thymius.

"Gramercy Ghost," a light comedy about a young girl, her two beaux, and an inherited Civil War ghost, was the first production of Theatre South. Its success was followed in the spring by Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize-winning play "Our Town."

In addition, Theatre South combined efforts with Junior Players to produce a children's play. As an additional phase of its work, Theatre South is affiliated with a national society called Thespians. Entrance to this honorary group can be gained only by hard work, determination, and devotion to Theatre South.

Thespiian activities are largely those of leadership in dramatic projects. This year, for example, our Thespians, whose new members had been inducted in April, managed and were hosts at a play festival sponsored by the Long Island Speech Association.

SERVICE ORGANIZATIONS

MANY students of Great Neck South Senior High have found that service can be a rewarding experience. They receive great satisfaction from their work in the service clubs of our school. In these clubs, they work not only for their own enjoyment, but also for the benefit of the school, of other organizations, of the community, or of individuals. Not many people realize all the work done by these students to help the average school day run smoothly.

Those who do, however, know that our service clubs deserve gratitude and praise from the entire school.

South Senior High was proud this year to have its own chapter of Boys' Hi-Y, under the sponsorship of Mr. Abrams. The club performed many services for the school. These included providing assistance in the offices and aiding in the contribution of money toward a scholarship for a worthy senior. By raising money for North Shore Child Guidance Care and by running a booth at the North Shore Fair, the club service to our school. Some are regular or daily duties; others are jobs done at the request of other organizations.

This year, bimonthly meetings were usually business meetings, with the exception of the program by Frank Warner, folk-singer, and the induction ceremony. The Hi-Y girls were able to raise enough money to award a scholarship to a deserving senior.

The Key Club at times may have appeared to be a Jack-of-all-trades organization. Before homeroom period, Key Clubbers peddled their diversified wares—newspapers, newspapers, and more of the same. Generous in giving of their time, the boys set out one brisk morning, scrub brushes and pails in hand. What may have seemed to be a field trip of the Carwasher's Union was an entourage of Key Club members, eager to shine the cars of willing victims. The Club demonstrated its athletic prowess in a baseball game in which they challenged the faculty.

These escapades of Key Clubbers were conducted, however, for the benefit of the club's scholarship program. Its services, rendered in the interest of the school and the community, earned the respect and gratitude of everyone.

CLUBS

ALTHOUGH the 2:35 bell marked the end of classes for the day, it also marked the beginning of one of the most important phases of life at Great Neck South Senior High School—student activities. With a multitude of clubs and organizations to choose from and with an abundance of youthful energy and zeal, students found that participation in extra-curricular activities could be both rewarding and enjoyable. Whether he took part in intramurals, the club of his choice, or in a committee's work, each student who gave time and effort to an after-school activity was aware that he was enriching his own experience while contributing to our healthy extra-class program.

The newly formed ART CLUB was probably the smallest organization in school; its size, however, never dampened the enthusiasm of its members. The purpose of the club was to give students a chance to enjoy themselves and also to contribute original art work to the school. The club worked on a painting for the home economics room, made an imaginative mobile, which adds a touch of creativity to the art room, and went on a field trip. Mr. Bainard served as sponsor of the club.

The AUDIO VISUAL AIDS CLUB, under the sponsorship of Mr. Barry, rendered valuable service to the school by operating the moving picture projectors, phonographs, and tape recorders for classes and assemblies.

Although much of the volunteer work was done "behind the scenes" it did not remain unnoticed. The A. V. A. ran the sound equipment for parties and dances, P. T. A.

meetings, and announcements over the public address system. Each new member of the club was instructed in the use of the equipment and was presented with an operator's license once he had mastered the operations.

A cross between a group of aspiring biologists and an able sponsor results in the AKRON SOCIETY. This history-making theory was demonstrated at Great Neck South in '59. The aims of Akron Society were to further the members' knowledge and interest in the field of biology and to develop laboratory techniques. Afternoons, Room 613 was a biological testing ground as members of the club worked on projects in various divisions of biology. Of noteworthy interest were the research projects conducted by Carol Lehmann and Marge Weber in cooperation with the North Shore Hospital.

Now let's see—if you cross a pink petunia plant and a scarlet skinkweed and a maroon mongoose you'll have a—Eeekk!

To boost the teams along with their spirited cheers, the VARSITY and JUNIOR VARSITY CHEERLEADERS attended each and every football and basketball game that was played this year. Under the leadership of their captains they made each game delightful, whether it was won or lost.

A large turnout of enthusiastic students got the CHEMISTRY CLUB off to a healthy start. After the club was organized, its programs were set up. At each meeting, two members would perform experiments for the rest of the membership. In addition, many students worked on individual or team projects. All activities were designed to increase their knowledge of and skill in chemistry. Among the demonstrations presented were that of distillation of gasoline, the use of the analytical balance, titration, and finding the percentage of acetic acid in vinegar.

girls auditioned and were chosen to be the "nightingales" of Great Neck South. This select group joined the Senior Choir in caroling at Grand Central Station and also added their treble blending to all the concerts given by the Music Department.

It was a common occurrence to have someone walk into a FORUM CLUB meeting with one set of fixed ideas and come out with a completely different point of view. The Club, meeting on every second and fourth Thursday, helped students better to understand the peoples of the world and to form concrete points of view while still retaining an open mind on all subjects.

Students were made aware of the importance and significance of world events by discussions on topics ranging from economic theory to the place of religion in schools. Meetings usually consisted of reports by individuals on topics, which would then be thrown out to the group for general discussion. Two meetings were devoted to discussions of socialism.

The FUTURE NURSES OF AMERICA, under the guiding hand of Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, our school nurse, consisted of twelve girls interested in pursuing careers in the nursing profession. The club offered students a chance to learn more about the various opportunities in nursing through movies and field trips to hospitals, orphanages, and other institutions. At its bi-monthly meetings its basic purpose was to acquaint each member with the advantages and disadvantages of every phase of nursing and nurses training.

As its name implies, FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA is made up of those students who think that they will become teachers. The club's activities, therefore, are those which will help future pedagogues to be informed about education and teaching.

This year, the FTA established its constitution and took for its name that of one of the best-loved teachers of our school; the club is now known as the Clifford R. Tupper chapter of the Future Teachers of America. FTA offered its members an opportunity to visit elementary schools to observe actual teaching. Films were shown, panel discussions were presented, and field trips were taken. The FTA was a very active group this year and plans to do even more in the future. The club hopes to establish a reference file for its members and a scholarship fund for a deserving senior.

"Knit one, purl one" . . . "Cut in four tablespoons of shortening" . . . "Blue is a cool color"—These were some of the most common phrases circulating around Room 210 on Friday afternoons, when the HOME ECONOMICS CLUB met under the sponsorship of Mrs. Mangan. The program of the club was highlighted this year by a speaker from the Barbizon School of Modeling and by the preparation of a Thanksgiving dinner. Membership, open to all future homemakers, enabled many interested girls to increase their knowledge of sewing, fashion, and the culinary arts.

Some like it hot, others cool and scintillating; but, daddy, no matter the form or character, jazz has fans the world over. At Great Neck South, too, exist jazz enthusiasts. The purpose of the JAZZ CLUB is to explore the structure of jazz. "What I mean, man, is like crazy, that's all." The programs try to familiarize the members with the implications of jazz. "Like cool—ya-hoo!" More often, however, meetings develop into jam sessions and all the cats go ape! They bomb out, man!

The officers of the Jazz Club are Bob O'Brien, (Big Daddy); Aaron Goodman, (Little Daddy); Tom Winer, recording secretary; Liz Evunderlich, "bingers" and Bob Paetiur, "he plans the cupers." Mr. Dickerson is the "Big Boss." Like now, man, I dig it the most!

Adding to the entertainment and enjoyment of Great Neck South Senior High School's functions, the KILTIES were outstanding in their performances. The girls, clad in kilts, white blouses and pompomed sneakers also displayed their unique dance arrangements at the Junior Prom and at the G. O. dances.

The LATIN AMERICAN CLUB met under the supervision of Miss Ohara and Mrs. Hobbs. Its four members discussed Latin America—its geography, industries, agriculture, history, governments, people, and way of life. They vicariously enjoyed the delights of Latin America. An added attraction was a special meeting with the Spanish Club.

The Latin American Club holds the distinction of being the smallest club in school. With this honor, the club hopes to entice new members and to double its membership next year.

At the first of the eight meetings held throughout the year, each member signed a pledge to speak only French during these réunions, and chose the organizational committee on which he desired to serve.

Under the leadership of the officers and the sponsor, Miss Louise Crandall, each gathering was highly enjoyable, offering the members an opportunity to utilize their knowledge of the French language by singing French songs, holding group discussions, participating in French games, and giving several amusing French presentations.

It might be noted at this point that membership in Le Cercle Français is open to all those taking their fourth year of French, as well as to others who have a particularly good knowledge of the French language.

About fifty students formed the regular assistants staff in the library. Each of the members gave one or more periods a week to work in the library, where his duties included not only the regular desk routine but also the checking of attendance and assistance in preparation of new books. The LIBRARY CLUB was composed of some twenty of these student assistants who met after school twice a month. Club members added special projects to their regular library duties and during the year drafted a constitution, prepared discussions, attended a play, and organized other field trips.

For those students interested in triangles, tetragons, and T-squares, Great Neck South formed its first MATH CLUB this year. Under the supervision of Mr. Thymius, this group met on the second and fourth Mondays of each month.

The topics were presented for discussion by members of the club. These topics varied from the slide rule to the magic square and to the solving of theoretical problems. During one of the meetings a film on short cuts in math was shown.

Delving into the mechanics of the slide rule occupied the club's enthusiasm for six meetings. Other topics of major interest engrossed the mathletes for the remaining part of the year.

Although the PHYSICS CLUB was organized late in the year, enthusiastic members started and completed many projects. Among the productions of these future Einsteins were a stroboscope, built by Bill Markowitz; a geiger counter, assembled by Howard Perlis; and a machine that changes light to sound, built by Carter Murphy. Mr. Singer, the sponsor, made the meetings even more interesting with his jovial cynicism. In addition to projects, meetings were devoted to informative discussions of new discoveries and theories.

Early this year U. S. scientists transmitted waves to Venus. An even greater achievement was the transmitting of waves by RADIO SOUTH in the form of morning announcements, club programs, and commercial broadcasts throughout the school.

Future Mike Todds were able to get experience by directing, producing and operating the technical facilities.

Someday, Radio South hopes to be able to broadcast a regular program over the air.

The Society of the THREE B's is a club of music enthusiasts dedicated to the proposition that the names of Bach, Beethoven, and Brahms shall never be forgotten in South Senior High. This year the club numbered approximately thirty students; not all were musically talented, but all possessed an avid interest in good music. Three B's met once a month under the sponsorship of Mr. Clifford Ormsby. All club meetings included entertainment, provided either by fellow students or by professional performers. This year the club was honored by visits from such performers as well-known pianist David Poliachine and Leonid Hambro, who is staff pianist to both the New York Philharmonic and to Radio Station

This year they sponsored performances including everything from a string quartet to the Dartmouth Glee Club. Three B's was the first school club to attend a rehearsal of the N. Y. Philharmonic, and, since then, has also begun to attend famous operas at the Metropolitan Opera preparation forum.

By becoming a member of Three B's, students not only gain personal enjoyment, but also become more appreciative of the music which is made available to the school through the music department.

Made up of students interested in the culture, traditions, and language of Spain, the SPANISH CLUB met on alternate Thursdays to further the interest and knowledge of its members. The requirements for joining the club were that a student be Spanish-speaking, have taken Spanish for one or two years, or be able to speak Spanish well.

One of the club's most interesting activities this year was a trip to the Hispanic Museum in New York City in conjunction with Spanish students from the North Senior High.

Anyone at the Great Neck station of the L.I.R.R. early on Saturday mornings, could see about twenty enthusiastic teenagers waiting to embark for New York. Later that day, however, the spectator would see a group of the most exhausted teen-agers imaginable returning from the city. They would have just taken children from the LaGuardia Settlement House on an interesting excursion in New York.

These teen-agers are members of TAPI, Teen-Agers Pitch In, the largest club in the school, which devotes its time to planning ways of helping less privileged youngsters. The large membership makes it possible to have a trip every week. Among the places visited this year were the Bronx Zoo, St. George swimming pool, the Planetarium, the Statue of Liberty, Town Hall shows, and the Empire State Building. In addition, Christmas and Easter parties were held at the settlement house with entertainment, refreshments, and prizes—all supplied by Tapi members. . . .

Besides the club's officers, there are representatives from each class, all of whom comprise the Executive Board. This committee planned the trips and the monthly newspaper, Tapigram.

SIR HENRY NEWBOLT

S P O R T S

AS soon as the school year began, Great Neck South's athletic events got under way, with a full schedule of sports for each season. . . .

The most successful team this fall proved to be the TENNIS TEAM, which brought home Great Neck South's first division championship. They had an undefeated season, up to the divisional championships, winning all twelve of their matches by overwhelming scores.

The team was forced to play on courts off school grounds because the school courts were not ready. In spite of this handicap, Mr. Zamchick led Great Neck South's first tennis team to victory.

The team's eleven lettermen were: Captains John Marcus and Jim Greenberg, Bruce Mertens, Joel Kaufman, Jerry Gelles, Ronny Litz, Tom Harris, Al Pastore, Barry Levine, Arthur Levi, and Steve Simon. The supporting members were Andy Widen and Howard Heller.

"I'm from Wheatley."

Deep thinker.

Let's have some traveling music.

The first varsity CROSS COUNTRY team of the Great Neck South Senior High School had a very successful year, finishing the season with an excellent record of four wins to no losses. In two dual meets the Harriers defeated Westbury and Bethpage by perfect scores of 15-40. In two triangular meets Great Neck South beat Mineola and Clarke 18-45-57 and Carle Place and Herricks 25-30-65. In the North Championship, the team came in second to Garden City, and in the County Championship it again came in second, this time to Carle Place.

Third row—Coach Hess, Richard Meyer, Donald Riker, Bob Paltrow, Michael Sacks, Alec Berger, Vinnie Karaktin, Rod MacGregor, Rick Estley.

The team, coached by Mr. Clarke, was led by two fine running seniors, Fred Mletzko and Bob Burchell, who came in first and second in all of the regular season meets and did very well in the North Shore and County Championships. They also went to the New York State Championships at Cornell, where they kept up their good records. Senior Bob Kalish and juniors Steve Holmes and Doug Stahl did a fine job and were consistently in the top ten. Other members of the team were Andy Alland and Sophomores Charles Namur and Harrison Gregory.

Great Neck South Senior High School's first SOCCER TEAM did very well considering its inexperience and the fact that only two members of the team were former lettermen.

The team played fourteen games, winning seven, losing four, and tying three. Since nineteen boys will be returning next year, Coach Hess looks ahead to an excellent second season. Nine lettermen, including our all-scholastic goalie Frank Lutz, will be back.

The letters, which cited the boys for their outstanding participation in soccer, were awarded at an assembly held on January 16th

The Great Neck South VARSITY KEGLERS rounded out a successful season by placing eleventh in a field of thirty-four in the Nassau County Championship Tournament.

In regular season competition the pin toppers, after a very slow start, came off to win twenty-eight of their last thirty points and tie Clarke for the North Shore Section II Championship with a record of 34-11.

The roster of the varsity team fluctuated this year with many boys bowling during the season. The six top bowlers were Jack Jacobs with a high game of 234, Joe Graf (212), John Piccirillo (221), Bruce Mertens (201), Mike Sacks (210), and Warren Kahn (200).

In their first year of varsity competition REBEL FOOTBALLERS turned in a discouraging 1-5-1 slate. In the first game against Levittown Division Avenue, the Rebels lost a tough one 6-2. In the second game against Clarke the Rebels scored their first touchdown of the year on a pass to Dick Reinhart although they lost the game 28-6. The third game of the season saw the Southerners lose to Plainedge 25-7 even though they led at the half 7-6 on a touchdown by Steve Rosenblum. The Rebels scored their only victory of the year in the fourth game, routing Plainview by a 41-7 count. The offense was led by Ron Conklin, who scored two touchdowns and gained 197 yards rushing, and Warren Holtzman, who also scored two touchdowns. Carl Botti and Steve Rosenblum also tallied. The fifth game saw the Rebels lose a heart-breaker to Herricks 9-0 in a driving rain. In the sixth game the Rebels, led by the outstanding defensive work of guard Bill Blumenschein, held favored Wheatley to a scoreless tie. The last game of the season saw the Rebels lose to Syossett by a 27-13 count although sophomore Charlie Horstman scored two touchdowns.

were mainstays of the big Rebel line. Bob Ayres, the Rebels' leading ground gainer, Steve Rosenblum, Ron Conklin, John Piccirillo, Ken Pepper and Arthur Unger rounded out the backfield.

Coach Turner felt that the team was hurt by the fact that there were no home games this year. He praised the boys' efforts highly, however, and voiced optimism over the prospects for next year's team.

"Our greatest threat this year has been over-confidence," said

New girl in town.

Brains vs. brawn.

How's tricks?

Coach Turner, commenting on the high morale of the BASEBALL team. He also praised the squad's attitude, determination, and skill. The twenty-one members of the team, which began practice on March 16, diligently worked after school for two hours each day. Although many of the members had good junior varsity and freshman experience, the lack of varsity experience did prove a temporary handicap. It is hard to pick out "outstanding" players, but Vincent Karaktin, John Meyer, John Piccirillo, Kenny Purcell, and Matt Caccioppo are deserving of special mention.

THE purpose of the Boys' Athletic Association is to encourage participation in intramural and interscholastic competition. To be a member, a boy must have a varsity letter. BAA members assist in the administration of different sports events. This year, they kept a file of scholastic and sports records of members.

At mid-year, an assembly was held at which letters were given to members of the following varsity teams: tennis, soccer, football, cross country, and wrestling. Coaches of the teams spoke of the boys' accomplishments. The program was brought to a close by having athletes, covered with luminous paint, portray the sports represented.

Letters for spring sports were presented at a dinner which was planned and managed by BAA members.

THE Girls' Athletic Association, generally known as the GAA, is sponsored by Miss Staat and consists of girls who have attendance credit in two or more after-school activities. The function of the association is to organize the intramural and interschool activities and to provide a method of student representation. The council, composed of the managers of each sport and activity, was headed by Pat Pugh, President; Pat Ellis, Vice president; Pat Keating, Secretary; Fran Blumenschein, Treasurer.

Girls are awarded points for their participation in sports activities. Extra credit is given to those who make the honor, reserve, and class teams, Leaders' Corps, and Modern Dance. At the annual GAA Awards Day, girls are awarded the letters that they have earned by accumulating points. All girls earning 700 points are given a trophy, and each year the outstanding senior in the program is awarded the honor emblem on a white blazer. All this is sponsored by the G. A. A.

LEADERS' CORPS

THE goal of the Leaders' Corps is to give each girl an opportunity to lead in all sports and activities that are under the sponsorship of the Physical Education Department. The duties of a Leader are to assist teachers in the teaching of certain skills both in gym classes and in after-school activities.

This year's officers were President, Nancy Ronsheim; Vice President, Carol Cohen; and Secretary-Treasurer, Val Estey.

Try-outs for membership were held in January and ten new Leaders were selected from all three grades. These girls were: senior Pat Pugh, junior Eileen Brennan, and sophomores Denise Cherry, Ann Ittleman, Jann Secord, Peggy Semel, Karen Shor, Nancy Skrill, Dee Urban, and Lois Weiss.

The 1958-'59 inductions were held on Wednesday, January 21. At the inductions the new members recited the Leaders' Corps pledge administered by the president. Each girl in the club received a pin in recognition of her participation in the club.

CLASS OF 1961

IN October, sophomores had finally just about solved the maze of the halls, had renewed acquaintances, and settled down to class business. First on the agenda was the election of class officers. Campaign speeches, given at an assembly, were followed by voting. Jorge de Turris, as President; Diane Levy, as Vice President; Jann Secord, as Secretary; and Dee Urban, as Treasurer were victorious.

The constitution of the Class of '61 was drawn up by Wendy Alper, Betty Greenberg, and Alan Neuwirth. The path was now cleared for homerooms to elect representatives and alternates to the Class Council. Because of the overenthusiasm of Council members, it was necessary to select a parliamentarian. Sam Leiken was thus honored.

To stimulate interest, a contest to design a class ticket was held. Larry Faulkner's entry, an attractive design of the school colored in orange and blue, won.

Meetings were held irregularly throughout the year. Room 705, Miss Mallon's abode, proved to be not only the scene for preparation and planning, but a hangout as well, thanks to Miss Mallon's friendly smile and warm personality.

On December 1, Sophs flocked to the "Rebel Roost" their first affair. Refreshments were planned by Peggy Nelson's committee. Sophs snacked on dozens of donuts and sipped cases of cokes. The large turn-out was attributed to the excellent performance of the Publicity Committee, headed by Lucy Norman. Jeff Buzen was the chairman of the Games and Organization Committee.

For extra donuts, the sophomores hung letters around their necks in order to spell specified words. They hula-hooped and whooped and sang and danced and ate and were entertained by their classmates, who had been recruited and rehearsed by Ira Springer's Entertainment Committee. The evening was highlighted by a faculty hula-hoop spinning contest. Miss Mallon, class sponsor, enthusiastically joined in and swirled with style!

A combination volleyball-dance night, the "Soph Spree" was scheduled for a Thursday evening in March. Much to the unexpected glee of the class snow closed school for the day. Much to the disappointment of the class, however, the night's activity was also cancelled.

"Spring Fling" was held on the school grounds on May 14, from 4 P.M. to 7 P.M. Hot dogs, mustard, and relish were consumed at this picnic. Ice cream was eaten for dessert. Ellen Wolrich's Refreshment Committee planned the menu. Kenny Friendlander, chairman for the affair, co-ordinated committee activity and saw to it that everything functioned properly.

The journalistic class put out two issues of Spotlight 61, a lively class newspaper which contained news, features, and sports. This promoted class unity and spirit. Karen Bang-Jensen was editor-in-chief. The second issue, published in May, had six pages.

The Sophomores, pleased by the success of the party, the picnic, and the class paper, are eagerly looking ahead to the future. Their class will be the first to get full "long-term" (three-year) benefit from the new school. The high standards which they have achieved will be a criterion for classes yet to come.

THE first junior class of Great Neck South Senior High School got off to a good start this fall by electing their class officers: Jim Cornehlson, Eleanor Gordon, Sue Weinstein, and Carol Cohen, president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively.

The first class event was a rousing success as 90% of the class purchased class tickets and attended "South Side Story." The party, which took place on December 4, was highlighted by an evening of dancing, some top-notch entertainment, and delicious refreshments. The lucky winner of the cookie contest was Karen Belanger, and the entertainment was "M. C.'d" by Dave Warmflash. Committee chairmen included Jeanette Elby, invitations and hospitality; Al Raiken and Alice Norman, publicity; Fran Blumenschein, refreshments; and Fran Schwartz, entertainment. There was exceptionally good committee participation, and, of course, the teachers must be recognized for their able assistance.

On February 14, 1959, the class of 1960 celebrated St. Valentine's Day in gala fashion. The big event was "Cupid's Capers," the first junior prom of our school. The decorations committee, led by Carol Zausner and Elsie Chandler, converted the gym into a romantic dreamland with a red and white color scheme that provided an exciting background for the festivities. The excellent dance music was supplied by the Henry Jerome band, and the entertainment committee, chaired by Jill Moss, brought forth some enjoyable entertainment. The refreshments committee, headed by Fred Rosen, provided delicious ice cream tarts and tasty punch. Credit must also go to the sophomore waiters who were so helpful in making the prom a success.

Other committees deserving mention were the hospitality committee, led by Sharon Cohen; the publicity committee, with N. Raiken as chairman, and the invitations committee, headed by Peg Cronin. The prom certainly could not have been so successful if not for the hard work done by co-chairmen Babette Cottin and Dave Warmflash, the faculty sponsor, Mr. Calabrese, and all the people who participated on the various committees. Congratulations to Terri Granata and Vinnie Karaktin who were elected king and queen of the prom! A good time was had by all, and the junior prom will long remain a memorable event for all who attended.

The last class event, the junior picnic, was held on May 21, and was as successful as the two prior events.

All in all, a combination of hard work, willing participation, and initiative on the part of the class, under the able leadership of the officers and the class sponsor, Mr. Calabrese, made this year a most enjoyable and memorable one for the class of 1960.

CLASS OF 1959

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Stan Kase, Treasurer; Nancy Feldman, Secretary; Mr. Parker, Sponsor; Dave Ducore, President; Marian Feldstein, Vice-President.

LEAVING behind old memories, those seniors fortunate enough to live below the "Mason Dixon" line, migrated to southern lands to establish the first graduating class of Great Neck South Senior High School. Of course, we didn't forget the memories and friends shared up North, but we did build many new ones to add to the old.

Class spirit was at its height when twenty-seven students showed their willingness to lead their class through its last memorable year. Unfortunately, not all twenty-seven could be elected; Dave Ducore, Marian Feldstein, Nancy Feldman and Stan Kase were chosen to be president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively. With the help of Mr. Parker, our versatile class sponsor, these four led us through many memorable "firsts."

Topping the list of memorable firsts was our first class party. "Senior Sumpin'" (which was named by a member of the class who wishes to remain anonymous) was co-chaired by Benji Wenger and Steve Rosenblum. On December 11, the creepers, crawlers, blobs, and amoebas all assembled in the Boys' Gym for an evening of games, refreshments and dancing. The entertainment, ably M. C.'d by Neil Goldman, highlighted the Kilties, two singing groups, a skit, and boys from our kitchen staff, the Deviliers. It was unanimously voted the best senior class party ever held in the South High School!

On October 8, 1958, twenty-five unsuspecting students were given yellow slips. They met Mr. Tucker after an assembly to find that they had become members of the Top Ten per cent of the Class of 1959.

While class functions rested until the spring season, seniors were still kept busy with research papers, College Boards, Regents, and the long-awaited moment when the college acceptance finally came. Other diversions were the three G. O. dances, the two school plays and various assemblies.

Seniors were privileged, along with the rest of the school, to enjoy, for the first time, the luxuries of smoking and music while dining in a spacious cafeteria, a far-reaching parking lot, and modern classrooms amidst the flora and fauna of the old Phipps estate.

On April 22, 1959, an Honor Society Assembly was held for entire school and parents of the new members present. Members had been told of their election the week before and now were awarded pins which were presented following speeches by Mr. Maier and Dr. Miller.

Among seniors' fond memories there will always be a place for the teachers most prevalent in the seniors' minds. Mr. Booke's grammar tests shocked all prospective English teachers who thought that they knew grammar. Miss Chisholm's fondness for our new building was second in her heart only to her fondness for "all right's." Whenever half of the senior class was dreading a test, you could be sure Mr. Freeman was in back of it all. Students mumbling that they thought the hexagon had eight sides could surely be Mr. De Laura's little geniuses. Boys in physics classes with those three lonely girls surely had a good time. And Art classes were made enjoyable with the addition of music. With the rebirth of spring the social life of the seniors was again awakened with the promise of the Senior Prom, Senior Picnic, Senior Dinner and finally, the culmination of three years in high school, graduation.

The Prom, "Sayonara," under the direction of Arnie Fink and Adrienne Yip, came and went successfully thanks to the undying efforts of all involved. In senior minds the evening became a blur of flowers, shining faces, new hairdos and soft music with the nostalgic feeling that this was the last formal of the Class of '59.

Among the last firsts was the senior class dinner, which provided a time for reminiscing and a time for gazing into the future. Awards were given out and the Last Will and Testament was read.

Many stories about the Jones Beach picnic were bruited through homerooms, but when the date was finally announced everyone was delighted. The excitement of the day already marked by wonderful plans started off with a bang as seniors left the school and continued the whole day. A wonderful time was had by all.

With graduation, memories that had been stored away were relived once again in each senior's mind. From the earliest chagrin of being "lowly sophomores" to the exalted position of "Big Senior," the Class of '59, had left its indelible impression on both the north and south schools. Amid the past, lies the memory of sophomore picnic and parties, Junior Prom, the numerous G. O. dances, adjustments of high school life, difficulties that arose with the separation of schools and the guidance throughout high school of two wonderful principals, Dr. Mossman and Mr. Tucker.

Singing the "school blues."

Come now, it wasn't that funny.
